The following is a message from the Good Earth Natural Food Stores in Bradenton. In this day and age of “mega-marts, “malls”, and “mail order” – nutritional supplements are a “dime a dozen”. Now, more than ever, there’s good reason to do the research to ensure that what you’re taking is something that your body recognizes and can use to your benefit. At the Good Earth stores, they carry the highest quality nutritional supplements, for the fairest prices available. Some of their staff are health-industry spokespeople, and some are licensed nutritionists. Their three stores are set up to be very customer-friendly. They’re small enough to be intimate, but large enough to be a full-service health food grocery store. That is: you’ll find everything from supplements to organic produce to self-help books to bulk products. But the best part is; they know a lot of their customers by name. Go in and see them - for your good health. See the yellow pages for their address and visit them at one of the three stores conveniently located in Bradenton. Or call them at 795-0478 for more information. They’re the Good Earth Natural Foods Stores, and they’re “your” friendly full-service health food store.
